1. Introduction

An important event for the GHF (HHP) program this year was Egil Asprem's PhD dissertation defense on February 5, which was awarded a cum laude (the highest possibility in the Dutch system). His dissertation, The Problem of Enchantment, was accepted for publication by Brill Academic Publishers and is expected to appear in print in 2014. Asprem was exceptionally successful in his applications for Postdoctoral funding by the Dutch Organization for Scientific Research (NOW): he was awarded a Veni as well as a Rubicon scholarship. After due consideration he decided to accept the Rubicon, which allows him to spend two years of postdoc research at the University of Santa Barbara, USA, where he is now working in a research group focused on religion and consciousness studies headed by Prof. Ann Taves. Between the end of his PhD appointment and the beginning of his postdoc position on September 1, short-term financing by the Foundation HHP and the Faculty of Humanities of the UvA made it possible for Asprem to take responsibility for building the Center's new website. The website makes optimal use of state-of-the art technology for modern design and connecting with social media, and should significantly enhance HHP's online visibility and attractiveness for prospective students.

The previous Report mentioned some worries about the decline in student numbers over the past few years, particularly international students. Fortunately, this trend would seem to have been temporary: starting with the academic year 2013-2014, the student numbers have increased considerably, and the number of applications for 2014-2015 looks very good as well. Most plausibly this change may be attributed to a combination of increasing optimism regarding the international economy and the impact of the new website.
